About:

I am a passionate sound recordist who has been fortunate enough to have worked on a wide range of different location shoots, including corporate, dramatic, VR experiences and commercials. I have a broad technical knowledge of different recording equipment and techniques and I will ensure that you achieve the best possible sound on location, no matter what the shoot demands. Since completing my degree in Audio Production at SAE London I have been building up my kit list and established some great relationships with my clients. Being experienced in audio post production allows me the advantage of fully understanding the importance of capturing quality audio on location, as well as having impeccable organisation skills.
