Personal Profile

A motivated, creative individual with a drive to succeed and an ability to find innovative solutions. Having followed my passion for music and sound with my degree in Sound Technology, I started my own music production company 'N Productions' where I work with artistes to understand and create their vision for their projects. I am entrepreneurial to the core, working on various other projects which have developed my skills and knowledge in sales, negotiating, logical thinking and determination. From my employed positions I have developed a strong ability to work both within teams and individually, showing initiative and often taking a lead role. I am ready for the next step in my career and development, excited to bring my unique skill-set and experience to any role that I undertake.
