About Me

I've worked globally as a Director and Producer. I've directed commercials for brands such as Microsoft, Tic Tac, Asus and Red Planet Hotels and numerous other brands. Previously based in Asia, I've now returned to London and I am now based here.

On shoots, I've directed crews of up to 40 team members, both in studio and on location, and I have project managed numerous productions from inception through to delivery. I'm experienced in all aspects of production and post-production. On many projects, I have often hired and managed teams of freelancers during various stages of production, and I have an extensive range of contacts in the industry, both in UK and abroad.

My style is highly cinematic, and I have an in-depth understanding of cinematography, including lighting techniques, shot choice, framing and composition. I also pride myself in structuring strong narratives, both in the script and in the edit suite. I'm highly adept at conceiving creative ideas and storyboarding.

I know the commitment and focus required to take projects from pre-production, through to completion, on time and within budget, having written, produced and directed TV and Digital commercials, documentaries, branded content, viral and influencer videos. I've made award-winning documentary content and I'm currently developing a docu-series which I'm currently pitching to networks.

I'm also skilled in live TV multi-camera broadcasts and I currently work at The Jewellery Channel on an ongoing part-time freelance basis as a Live Broadcast Director/Producer/Vision Mixer.

I'm a native English speaker, proficient in Mandarin having lived in China for 2 years, and can speak basic Thai. I regard myself as organised, highly-motivated and possessing excellent inter-personal and team management skills.
